A woven heart logo for a new event, Giving Tuesday. This event began nationally in 2012 as a response to the commercialism and consumerism in the post Thanksgiving season. This year is a time to give. Please go to the link above to learn more.

Giving in Albion views: Sister City, History Hill, Swingin' at the Shell, and the Davis Athletic Complex.

Smaller images are Harrington School backpack giveaway, Holland Park, The Connector, and Farmers Markets. Thank you for your donations of time, talents & treasure for the greater good.

This November will be one to remember. There is the election of course, but also a super moon on Tuesday November 14, 2016 that will be the brightest moon in most of our lifetimes. Then there is Giving Tuesday, where we can give of our time, talents and treasure, and benefit both ourselves and others. This national event follows black Friday and Cyber Monday. The calendar below has more Marshall Public School events where students from Albion attend. MMS is Marshall Middle School, HS is Marshall High.

Albion's Bohm Theatre was closed for many years. Today it is called a movie palace.

Albion & Marshall both have distinctive landmarks that are enjoyed by residents and visitors alike. At left is Albion's Bohm Theatre, on the right is Brooks Fountain in Marshall. These were made possible by donations from givers of large and small amounts. End of the year donations can help you with taxes and good feelings, but they also make possible some of the local places and programs shown in this Guide.

In 1831, a stake was driven into the exact center of Marshall, and when excavation for Brooks Memorial Fountain began in 1929 the stake was discovered at this spot.
